

BOSVENA TRANSITION PRINCIPLES

01

Consistency of Adults

Children always see/ have access to their “school family” pair — Adults consistently show up and are emotionally predictable, grounded and warm. They hold boundaries gently and are firm on the expectation but gentle on the child.

02

Flexibility

Transitions adapts to each child’s need. There is no rush. No straight path. Adults are accepting of this and understand that authentic trust takes time.

03

Co-regulation First, Learning Second:

At Bosvena we believe that the emotional journey to psychological safety comes before curriculum. We believe this because we know that ‘No significant learning takes place without a significant relationship’.

04

Parent/ family relationship

At Bosvena we understanding that parental anxiety can become pupil anxiety. Our aim is to build strong relationships through the creation of both psychological safety and physiological safety for our pupils parents and carers. A non-judgemental, open door type approach is essential.
